

Avenue Louise 143 - B-1050 - Brussels - Belgium

TEL +32 2 542 04 10 FAX +32 2 542 04 19 www.croplife.org

Brussels, 30 July 2002

PRESS RELEASE

CropLife International website goes online

The new, revamped CropLife International public website www.croplife.org is now online.

This new website aims to provide stakeholders, media and the general public with up-to-date information on issues relating to the plant science industry and sustainable agriculture. It highlights the issues and provides information on what the plant science industry is doing to find sustainable solutions to the various challenges.

It is possible to either order or download documents, check facts and figures about the plant science industry, see industry positions, press releases and speeches, keep up to date on events and contact our network.

We will make every effort to keep this site as up to date as possible so that it can be considered as a reliable source of information on issues and activities in the plant science industry and sustainable agriculture.

To view our latest posting - CropLife International Annual Conference Report - simply click on this link:

http://www.croplife.org/website/pages/CropLife_International_Annual_Conference_2002.aspx?edit

-end-

For more information contact:

Carolyn Gill,
Public Relations Officer
Tel: +32 2 541 1662
email: carolyn@croplife.org

Stephen Weller
Communication Manager
Tel: +32 2 542 0413
email: stephen@croplife.org

CropLife International is the global federation representing the plant science industry. It supports a network of 75 regional and national associations and their member companies worldwide, led by companies such as BASF, Bayer CropScience, Dow AgroSciences, Dupont, FMC, Monsanto, Sumitomo and Syngenta.

CropLife International promotes the benefits of crop protection and biotechnology products and their importance to sustainable agriculture and food production.